Industrial designer

Design. Definition: to formally substantiate a given purpose.

Creating eyewear is also a process of constant push and pull between the aesthetic and functional. It is no exaggeration to say that 'design management' is a critical factor in company operations, and that the selection criteria for products comes down to design in contemporary society, a "golden age" for design. This collection was planned as a homage to the industrial designers who created the art evident in many aspects of daily life.

The existing legs of the chair were removed, and the Cantilever chair that emerged used two legs that consisted of the beginning and a revival. The pipe-structured chair, later known as the Wassily chair style, is said to have been inspired by a handlebar made of curved pipes.
