I Foldable Skin Closure

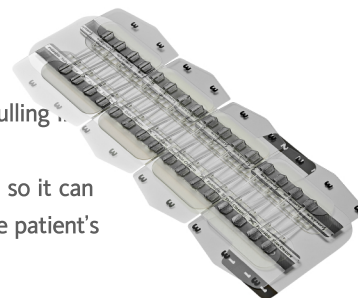

Minimizes scars as a result of sutures at the speed of staples

Foldable Skin Closure is a product for surgery and laceration wounds. Unlike sutures and staples, it is a non-invasive method of suturing the skin. It can minimize scarring, lessen suturing time and reduce the risk of infection to a minimum. In addition to this, because the product is easy to use and the patient can remove the suture retainer by himself/herself, it is a product with which patients are highly satisfied.

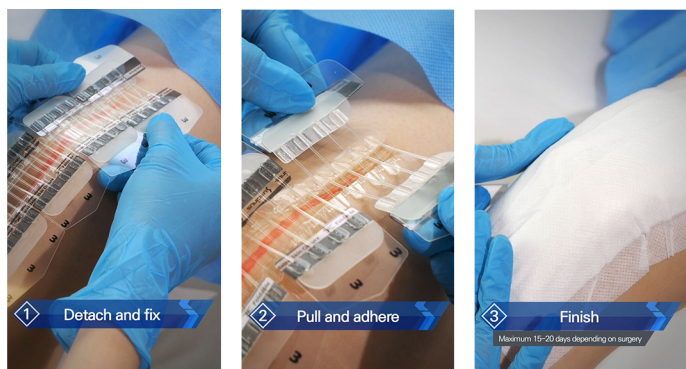

Why Foldable Skin Closure?

Foldable Skin Closure causes less pain to patients than the cable-tie skin closure, due to pulling in both directions around the surgery line.

Different from the cable-tie skin closure, the Foldable Skin Closure may have various sizes, so it can be painless when used even for patients with spinal surgery, and it is also easy to dress the patient's incision line.

HOW TO USE

1. Sterilize treatment area and allow it to completely dry.
2. Remove the protective film and hang your finger on the round cut inside the protective film and fold in half.
3. Hold the half-folded protective film and hold it on both sides to adhere to the suture.
4. Attach the string to the guide device and attach the hydrocolloid to the skin.
5. Remove all remaining protective film and attach the rest.
6. Repeat the above process, and when all parts are sutured, attach a suitable size gauze to the suture.

Clinical Benefit

By using the hydrocolloid on the skin contact surface, it protects the wound by minimizing allergic reactions without the risk of infection. It is easier and more convenient to use than sutures and staples.

Compared to sutures and staples, it is painless and significantly reduces scarring.
